A Letter from the New Editors

Hello everybody!

For those of you who aren't regular readers of Peter Vidal, here is some news. It is predicted that Campastimes is in for a major overhaul. No longer will you pick up Campastimes just because the Weekly or Sunday isn't around - rather, more of "After you Nachohan". So, in future, you'd better rush to the common room immediately after tea, or you'll have to wait long before you can have a look at Campastimes.

A magazine which caters to all literary tastes is what we aim at. Campastimes is not to be merely a medium for moon-struck poets. With all the monotony flushed out, an enjoyable and highly readable magazine is now around the corner.

Well, here's how you can involve yourself with Campastimes:

- Prizes for the best articles published - it pays ($ $ $...) to contribute to Campastimes!

Hostel competitions sponsored by Campastimes.

Campastimes now takes the other side of the Gajendra Circle by storm - participation of the staff and their families to be increased.

- Further details in our first issue.

Looking forward to meeting you next semester.
